EXHAUST FLEXIBLE PIPE

Our automobile exhaust flexible pipe are high pressure produced with water as medium, making corrugated pipe with less aggregation of stress in structure.

We improve the flexibility of bellows by increasing the height of the waves, to make it better in absorbing a variety of vibration, compensating installation displacement and thermal expansion and contraction and extending the life of the exhaust muffler system.

As the normal working condition of bellows are under high temperature and complex environment, therefore we use SUS304 as the main material of flexible pipe, which can bear high temperature and salt corrosion, making the product life longer.
